Richard Spencer: The Right Has Lost Its Mind – And How to Bring it Back

I have written at length about the Capitol Hill riot that took place on January sixth, and I would like to compare notes on the subject. Ali Soufan is a former counterterrorism expert and we all know Richard Spencer. Here are their views.

> Soufan likens the storming of the Capitol to al-Qaeda's 1993 attack on the World Trade Center. The implication is that the FBI and others need to act now to prevent America's domestic terrorist threat from metastasising into September 11 2001-style ambitions. "What happened is not the end — it is actually the beginning," Soufan told MSNBC. "If we pretend nothing happened, the chaos we've seen will come back more lethal and more dangerous than before."

Richard disagrees, and so do I. What happened at the Capitol was juvenile, horrible and indefensible in terms of where the alt-right should be headed. That said, the government is not going to take this lying down. Those who stormed the Capitol are capable of being a serious threat, but the government will and should act like it is.

> Although Spencer still describes himself as an “identitarian”, he voted for Joe Biden on November 3 — a disclosure that astonished me. “Trump brought out the worst aspects in me — that’s not what I want to be remembered for,” Spencer said. “I recognised the toxicity of rightwing populism and didn’t want America to go further down that road.” His view of the January 6 protesters is very different to Soufan’s. He said there was a hard core of genuinely violent types. But the majority were juvenile poseurs. “A lot of them see politics as a kind of video game — like shooting Nazi zombies in some kind of world war two gaming scenario,” he said. “You can see how unrealistic they are by the fact that they are still openly boasting on social media about what they did. They don’t seem to realise that the law is coming for them, which it is.”

The right has collectively lost its fucking mind. Not only are the dregs of the far-right ginning up the optics debate in pursuit of those with actual brains, but you have morons like Mike Enoch, Nick Fuentes and Andrew Anglin praising or apologizing for the Capitol storming. We can expect this from Fuentes, and the money trail, including hundreds of thousands in Bitcoin from foreign entities, leads one to suspect that nationalism is being subverted. Like we couldn’t have figured that out with Trump. But an even larger problem is the channeling of healthy identitarian or nationalist energies into the Republican party no matter what.

> You have to be an absolute fucking idiot to believe there aren't people taking money to goad "Nationalists" into doing dumb shit so the people who make a career manipulating them can make a few bucks and Jews who run the ADL get their boogeymen to validate their huge Federal grants. So lets look at what we have here. Nick Fuentes completely free and clear even though he organized it and was caught getting a huge BTC donation
> Then you have Thiel's facial recognition software company involved just like with Charlottesville.
> Then you have TRS/NJP vouching and supporting it. The same guys who had clearview AI (Thiel's software company) working for them. Weev (jew) Doug Mackey, and GOP insider "Rhodes". Not to mention Mike was married to B'Nai B'rith (Absolute lol). So put the pieces together. People with clout get paid to corral the worthless, mouth-breathing underbelly of Conservatism, the white dindus into doing dindu shit. Then they get the you all to claim responsibility under some moronic pretense of white solidarity so a tech billionaire who throws a few pennies your way can demonstrate how effective his software is at catching you and mainstream Con Inc is off the hook. What a great return on investment. What useful morons. A gov contract for that software will net him billions. And what a great excuse for Fuentes to launch his streaming site. And what a great opportunity for congress to launch Patriot Act 2.0 white people edition. Everyone seems to be winning! Oh, and Trump skimmed a sweet 250 million off you monkeys before leaving office. No refunds! 60 lawsuits, a DOJ investigation, foreign investigation picked by Trump and his team. NO FRAUD. And whats even worse, it doesn't matter. All that infrastructure you guys always talk about building has literally no dependence on which clown is President.
> But that doesn't matter because you'll never actually build infrastructure because you're utterly useless. You're just members of a cult and the proof is you're still supporting the guy who called the National Guard on his own supporters for showing up an event he told you to show up for and swept you under the rug for it including the four who died as a result. I mean, these people are all laughing at you. Trump, Malkin, Kirk, Thiel, Weev, Greenblat, the donors, etc. Trump is out there pardoning his and Kushner's pals and laughing at you. And then Twitter and TG do you all a fucking favor and cut off all the fedposters so what do you do? Migrate to Gab so you can continue the septic tank. Heaven forbid you actually grow the fuck up, stop being cheap, open your wallets, and start building that infrastructure. I'm not even going to bring up Parler. Just lol. Sometimes I think "fuck this entire joke of a movement". This isn't a vanguard and I honestly feel sorry for the few useful people out there with their own name and face trying to make it one. They deserve better.

The problem with the alt-right is the big tent movement that was build in 2016, but which ultimately leads to voting for Republicans, nonsense nationalism and faux politics ala Donald Trump. Greg Johnson, who has is taste in his ass, literally, has been laying waste to Spencer et al for daring to oppose the dear cult leader Orange Hitler: "Introducing the "Trump made me do it" defense". No, Richard is not saying Trump made him do anything. Spencer, and I would place myself in that camp, was in a position of losing for so long that having someone even slightly on our side was a little too much dopamine for one paradigm. The Trump campaign was wild and crazy and who knows what could happen. Well now, the cat shit the bed and here we are. Give it up guys, right-wing nationalism, populism, Trumpism, whatever you want to call it is a sham and always has been.
